As Bill Lipscomb would put it, "There ain't no use in er mascot, even if he is ten years old, when they turn a streak of greased lightning on the feller I'm mascotting for."

That's Bill's way of stating the case now at bat, in which Richmond won the verdict, 3 to 1, with Doctor Joyous Whizzing Ayers poking his fingers into the jam pot for his ninth straight victory. On the other end of the string might be found the Reverend Elongated Perryman, known in the high spots of baseball as the originator of the two-pronged Jinx.

Little fault can be found with Perry's brand of preaching. Under ordinary circumstances, with Bill Lipscomb working as well as he ever did in his whole life, which is some considerable life at that, seeing as how it encompasses 3,659 days, Perry should have won. He chucked with all the precision that has ever been his, but he was against a superior brand of hurling, and he lost.

Two of the freakiest sort of home runs figured in the pastime, one going to the griffithian henchmen, and the other to the followers of Pressly. Ginn was the hero for the invaders, and his knock, which fooled both Newton and Ducky Eberts, so that it rolled all the way to the clubhouse before being picked up, cashed the only blue chip of the argument for the visitors from the blue grass region of Crystal Lake. Sandy Piez was the lucky one on our side.

Strange to relate, both of the circuit drives happened after two were out. That of Ginn's came early, and gave Roanoke the lead, which they held gingerly until the sixth. Ladette and Perryman had wilted under the combined force of Sol's rays, and Ayers's pitching in the third, when the 400 lobbed one across to Ginn. It caused considerable trouble and much anxiety on the part of the assembled nuts. They, one and all, came to the conclusion that this whorling drive was going to spell the end of the contest. Logically, Ginn should have been credited with a single. But the suited fellow, chided Newton, hepped out to Eberts, and just as Ducky was waiting to nab it jumped over his head, and the damage was done.

However, it was the only time that a Tiger drifted around the bases. Indeed, it was the only time that a Tiger got acquainted with center farther advanced than second base. And just one got to that particular point of vantage. It was in the first inning. Ayers was not sufficiently warm to do anything real, and so Ginn hit the third ball over to center for a safety. He stole second and expired at that place. Incidentally, while Roanoke made two hits, both of these are credited to Ginn. Not another dweller of the jungle was able to connect properly with anything the doctor offered, and after the first, not counting Ginn's homer, first was as far as they were able to advance, and arriving there found Frank Norcum waving the red flag.

Richmond traveled slowly until the sixth, and the road might have been considerably tougher had the Tiger defense remained intact. In that sixth it began to crack. First it was the infinitesimal breach about which the glory-hungry wrote. Mace, with the count standing two and three hit what the press box described as a screaming single. Ayers hit a fast one at Spy, who obligingly booted, and Perry refused to take care of Piez's intended sacrifice, so that the paths were cleared with waiting Cole. Laval was unable to deliver, popping to Spy, but Connie Brennan came through with a crashing sound of wood against horseshoe, and both

On the Barton Heights team are several old Ashland players, among them, Black, Wightman and Swift, who were members of the Ashland team until a few days ago, when Manager Blanton made a trade, which carried away practically all of the local boys, and among them the best.

SEVENTEEN CREWS IN TRIM FOR BIG RACES

Cornell, Columbia, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Syracuse and Washington Universities Will Be Represented at Poughkeepsie Regatta—Ithaca School Is Prime Favorite.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 20.—The seventeen crews of Cornell, Columbia, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Syracuse and Washington Universities will be represented at Poughkeepsie Regatta—Ithaca School Is Prime Favorite.

In 1909 Cornell won the first race in 19 minutes 14 3/5 seconds. Cornell won in 1901, 1902 and 1903. Syracuse came to the front in 1904 and captured that event, but Cornell retrieved in 1905, and continued to walk away from the others each year until 1907, when Syracuse again crossed the line first. Cornell won in 1909, and has won every race since.

In the drawing for position the luck was with Cornell, with the result that that crew got course No. 6, on the extreme left, nearly in the middle of the river, where it was argued that unless there was an extremely high wind Cornell would have the strongest part of the chit tide. Syracuse drew No. 1, Wisconsin No. 2, Washington No. 3, Columbia No. 4, and Pennsylvania No. 5.

In the Wake of the Game

By GUS MALBERT

Charlie Strain and John Mace will be Steve Griffin's selection to-day against Roanoke. Both happened yesterday when Ayers retired Roanoke in the eighth without over-exerting him. McTrakan, Martin and Ladette each hit the first two, and each was retired in order.

Burleson, who was released Wednesday by Griffin, has signed with the Bristol club, and will play the second division with the first game against the Romans of Georgia by the score of 1 to 2. He allowed just four hits. They all took good care of him.

Bill Laval was the only Colt to get away with a stolen base yesterday. Piez, who was retired twice, but was nipped each time, Connie Brennan after hitting safely in the fourth attempted to stretch it into a double with Mattis hesitated a moment, but was stopped. The umpire, however, called a very good day on the paths for the locals.

The one happening of interest in the big leagues, aside from the fact that the Giants lost to Pittsburgh, was the decisive defeat handed Washington in both ends of a double bill by the trailing Yanks. In each game the score was 5 to 2. This shows Washington in third place and the White Sox in fourth. That shows the Yankees early to predict, and while it's a little early to predict, the Naps into third place, the Red Sox up to second, and behind the Athletics, the White Sox and Washington fighting it out for the other place in the first division, and you can't miss it far when the tape is crossed.

GOOBERS VICTORS OVER PORTSMOUTH
In Well-Played Game, Scoreless Until Ninth, Petersburg Wins Out.

Norfolk, Va., June 20.—In one of the best games ever seen in Portsmouth, the Pirates to-day lost to Petersburg, 2 to 1. There were no runs by either team until the ninth inning. Petersburg, by bunting hits and clever base running, sent two men across the pan in their last frame. Portsmouth made a bid for the game, when Howdell hit the ball over left field fence for a homer, but Brook made the other batters pop up easy flies.

Howdell and Brook pitched the best game of the season. The Petersburg twirler received faultless support, which helped him on to victory, while the Pirates piled up three errors behind him.

The third inning Catcher Hudgins, of the Pirates, in attempting to steal second, slid into the bag, dislocating his right ankle and fracturing several small bones in his leg. He received medical attention on the field and was sent to St. Vincent's Hospital. It is said he will not be able to play again for six weeks, perhaps not again this season.

CITY ENTERS ICE TRADE.
Cincinnati Converts Engine Houses Into Depots for Supplying the Public.
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Cincinnati, June 20.—The city of Cincinnati to-day went into the ice business when it established depots at all of the fire engine houses of the city where families were supplied who could not obtain ice from their regular dealers on account of the strike of the wagon drivers, their helpers and engineers of ice plants. The action of the city in going on strike resulted in the closing of the depots of ice plants and a further curtailment of the ice supply.

To alleviate the suffering and inconvenience of the people Mayor Hiram Chapman, telegraphed to the Mayors of Indianapolis, Cleveland and Columbus to ship as much ice as possible to Cincinnati. The Mayor also called the City Council in special session to-day to act upon an appropriation of $5,000 to be used by City Health Officer Landis, who is handling the ice business for the city, in the closing of the smaller ice companies and individual dealers have acceded to the demands of the union and are supplying ice to the hospitals and charitable institutions, but they cannot distribute to the entire city, and owing to the excessive heat, much suffering is being felt.

BONES CRUSHED IN FALL.
Eastern Man Has Fatal Accident at Cincinnati Viaduct.
Cincinnati, June 20.—A man giving his name as Charles Cassidy, of Lawrence, Mass., and who said he was a telegraph operator, died at the city hospital here early to-day as the result of a fall from a viaduct at Mitchell Avenue and the canal yesterday.

He received a compound fracture of both legs, a fracture of the skull and multiple bruises, but lived several hours after being found.

The coroner has ordered a post mortem on the body and is investigating the case, although the police are of the opinion that the fall was an accident.

COLLEGIANS ARE READY FOR FIGHT
Meet Battle Axes for Second Time This Season at Lee Park.

A good crowd will doubtless be on hand at Lee Park this afternoon to witness the second game of the season between the Battle Axes and the Collegians. The Axes promise to get revenge for the 1 to 6 defeat handed them by the Collegians the last time these two teams met. On the other hand, the Collegians claim that they will be stronger than ever in this game, and that they are sure to come out on top. A game between these two teams is always worth seeing. The game will be called at 4:30 o'clock sharp, and cars will take you right to the park.

The recent deal between Barton Heights and Ashland should greatly strengthen the latter, and all followers of amateur ball now look on them as pennant contenders. All of the teams in the Capital City League are going well, and the fight is a hot one.

The Southern Bell and Richmond Grays, of the Capital City League, will play a doubleheader at Byrd Park this afternoon, beginning at 3 o'clock.
